Section II · Part A Text 1

Text 1（钉子的历史）

Nearly 2,000 years ago, as the Romans began to pull out of Scotland, they left behind a curious treasure: 10 tons of nails, nearly a million of the things. The nail hoard was discovered in 1960 in a four-metre-deep pit covered by two metres of gravel.

Why had the Romans buried a million nails? The likely explanation is that the withdrawal was rushed, and they didn't want the local Caledonians getting their hands on 10 tons of weapon-grade iron. The Romans buried the nails so deep that they would not be discovered for almost two millennia.

Later civilisations would value the skilled blacksmith's labour in a nail even more than the raw material. As Roma Agrawal explains in her new delightful book Nuts and Bolts, early 17th-century Virginians would sometimes burn down their homes if they were planning to relocate. This was an attempt to recover the valuable nails, which could be reused after sifting the ashes. The idea that one might burn down an entire house just to reclaim the nails underlines how scarce, costly and valuable the simple-seeming technology was.

The price of nails fell by 90% between the late 1700s and mid-1900s, as economist Daniel Sichel points out in a research paper. According to Sichel, although the falling price of nails was driven partly by cheaper iron and cheaper energy, most of the credit goes to nail manufacturers who simply found more efficient ways to turn steel into nails.

Nails themselves have changed over the years, but Sichel studied them because they haven't changed much. Roman lamps and Roman chariots are very different from LED strips and sports cars, but Roman nails are still clearly nails. It would be absurd to try to track the changing price of sports cars since 1695, but to ask the same question of nails makes perfect sense.

I make no apology for being obsessed by a particular feature of these objects: their price. I am an economist, after all. After writing two books about the history of inventions, one thing I've learnt is that while it is the enchantingly sophisticated technologies that get all the hype, it's the cheap technologies that change the world.

The Gutenberg printing press transformed civilisation not by changing the nature of writing but by changing its cost — and it would have achieved little without a parallel collapse in the price of surfaces to write on, thanks to an often-overlooked technology called paper. Solar panels had few niche uses until they became cheap; now they are transforming the global energy system.

21. The Romans buried the nails probably for the sake of ____
- saving them for future use.
 - keeping them from rusting.
 - letting them grow in value.
 - hiding them from the locals.

Section II · Part A Text 2

Text 2 (狩猎采集者的育儿)

Parenting tips obtained from hunter-gatherers in Africa may be the key to bringing up more contented children, researchers have suggested. The idea is based on studies of communities such as the Kung of Botswana, where each child is cared for by many adults. Kung children as young as four will help to look after younger ones and “baby-wearing”, in which infants are carried in slings, is considered the norm.

According to Dr Nikhil Chaudhary, an evolutionary anthropologist at Cambridge University, these practices, known as alloparenting, could lead to less anxiety for children and parents.

Dr Annie Swanepoel, a child psychiatrist, believes that there are ways to incorporate them into western life. In Germany, one scheme has paired an old people's home with a nursery. The residents help to look after the children, an arrangement akin to alloparenting. Another measure could be encouraging friendships between children in different school years, to mirror the unsupervised mixed-age playgroups in hunter-gatherer communities.

In a paper published in the Journal of Child Psychology and Psychiatry, researchers said that the western nuclear family was a recent invention which broke with evolutionary history. This abrupt shift to an "intensive mothering narrative", which suggests that mothers should manage childcare alone, was likely to have been harmful. "Such narratives can lead to maternal exhaustion and have dangerous consequences," they wrote.

By contrast, in hunter-gatherer societies adults other than the parents can provide almost half of a child's care. One previous study looked at the Efé people of the Democratic Republic of Congo. It found that infants had an average of 14 alloparents a day by the time they were 18 weeks old, and were passed between caregivers eight times an hour.

Chaudhary said that parents now have less childcare support from family and social networks than during most of humans' evolutionary history, but introducing additional caregivers could reduce stress and maternal depression, which could have a "knock-on" benefit to a child's wellbeing. An infant born to a hunter-gatherer society could have more than ten caregivers — this contrasts starkly to nursery settings in the UK where regulations call for a ratio of one carer to four children aged two to three.

While hunter-gatherer children learnt from observation and imitation in mixed-age playgroups, researchers said that western "instructive teaching", where pupils are asked to sit still, may contribute to conditions such as attention deficit hyperactivity disorder. Chaudhary said that Britain should explore the possibility that older siblings helping their parents "might also enhance their own social development."

26. According to the first two paragraphs, alloparenting refers to the practice of ____

- sharing childcare among community members.
- assigning babies to specific adult caregivers.
- teaching parenting skills to older children.
- carrying infants around by their parents.

Section II · Part A Text 3

Text 3（AI 绘画与艺术家）

A Polish digital artist who uses classical painting styles to create dreamy fantasy landscapes, Greg Rutkowski has made illustrations for games such as Dungeons & Dragons and Magic: The Gathering. And he's become a sudden hit in the new world of text-to-image AI generation.

His distinctive style is now one of the most commonly used prompts in the new open-source AI art generator Stable Diffusion. The tool, along with other popular image-generation AI models, allows anyone to create impressive images based on text prompts. For example, type in "Wizard with sword and a glowing orb of magic fire fights a fierce dragon Greg Rutkowski," and the system will produce something that looks not a million miles away from works in Rutkowski's style.

But these open-source programs are built by scraping images from the internet, often without permission and proper attribution to artists. As a result, they are raising tricky questions about ethics and copyright. And artists like Rutkowski have had enough.

According to the website Lexica, which tracks over 10 million images and prompts generated by Stable Diffusion, Rutkowski's name has been used as a prompt around 93,000 times. Rutkowski was initially surprised but thought it might be a good way to reach new audiences. Then he tried searching for his name to see if a piece he had worked on had been published. The online search brought back work that had his name attached to it but wasn't his.

"It's been just a month. What about in a year? I probably won't be able to find my work out there because the internet will be flooded with AI art," Rutkowski says. "That's concerning."

Other artists besides Rutkowski have been surprised by the apparent popularity of their work in text-to-image generators — and some are now fighting back. Karla Ortiz, an illustrator based in San Francisco who found her work in Stable Diffusion's data set, has been raising awareness about the issues around AI art and copyright.

Artists say they risk losing income as people start using AI-generated images based on copyrighted material for commercial purposes. But it's also a lot more personal, Ortiz says, arguing that because art is so closely linked to a person, it could raise data protection and privacy problems.

"There is a coalition growing within artist industries to figure out how to tackle or mitigate this," says Ortiz. The group is in its early days of mobilization, which could involve pushing for new policies or regulation. One suggestion is that AI models could be trained on images in the public domain, and AI companies could forge partnerships with museums and artists, Ortiz says.

31. What can be learned about Rutkowski from the first two paragraphs?

Section II · Part A Text 4

Text 4（最高法院裁决与湿地保护）

The miracle of the Chesapeake Bay lies not in its depths, but in the complexity of its natural construction, the interaction of fresh and saline waters, and the mix of land and water. The shallows provide homes for hundreds of species while storing floodwaters, filtering pollutants from water, and protecting nearby communities from potentially destructive storm surges.

All this was put at great risk late last month, when the U.S. Supreme Court issued a ruling in an Idaho case that provides the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) far less authority to regulate wetlands and waterways. Specifically, a 5-4 majority decided that wetlands protected by the EPA under its Clean Water Act authority must have a “continuous surface connection” to bodies of water. This narrowing of the regulatory scope was a victory for builders, mining operators and other commercial interests often at odds with environmental rules. And it carries “significant repercussions for water quality and flood control throughout the United States,” as Justice Brett Kavanaugh observed.

In Maryland, the good news is that there are many state laws in place that provide wetlands protections. But that’s a very shortsighted view, particularly when it comes to the Chesapeake Bay. The reality is that water, and the pollutants that so often come with it, don’t respect state boundaries. The Chesapeake draws from a 64,000-square-mile watershed that extends into Virginia, Pennsylvania, New York, West Virginia, the District of Columbia and Delaware. Will those jurisdictions extend the same protections now denied under Sackett v. EPA? Perhaps some, but all? That seems unlikely.

It is too easy, and misleading, to see such court rulings as merely standing up for the rights of land owners when the consequences can be so dire for their neighbors. And it’s a reminder that the EPA’s involvement in the Chesapeake Bay Program has long been crucial as the means to transcend the influence of deep-pocketed special interests in neighboring states. Pennsylvania farmers, to use one telling example, aren’t thinking about next year’s blue crab harvest in Maryland when they decide whether to spread animal waste on their fields, yet the runoff into nearby creeks can have enormous impact downstream.

And so we would call on state lawmakers from Richmond to Albany to consider reviewing their own wetlands protections and see for themselves the enormous stakes involved. We can offer them a visit to Blackwater National Wildlife Refuge in Dorchester County where bald eagles fly over tidal marshes so shallow you could not paddle a boat across them but teeming with aquatic life. It’s worth the scenic drive.

36. The Chesapeake Bay is described in Paragraph 1 as ____

- a valuable natural environment.
- a controversial conservation area.
- a place with commercial potential.
- a headache for nearby communities.

Section II · Part B 新题型（41–45 选小标题）

下面是一些人对“美国博物馆将文物归还原属国”报道的评论（41–45），请从 A–G 中为每人选出最恰当的概括（有两项多余）。

41–45 解题方法与技巧（小标题题·先看这里）

- 先读标题：把 A–G 七个标题的中文意思先弄清，划出各自的关键词（如 friendly / biological / aggressive / brief / personality）。
- 抓段落主题句：多数段落首句或首两句即主题句；例子（如研究者、实验）是支撑，不选标题。
- 关键词复现：标题中的词在段落里必有同义/近义复现（oxytocin→biological；neuroticism→personality；three per second→brief）。
- 警惕干扰项：多余的两项往往“沾边但错位”，如 B、F 都讲“不适/不礼貌”，而段落并未强调。
- 先易后难：把最明显的段落先定，再排除法处理剩下的。
- 复核：把标题与段落连读，确认概括的是整段而非某一句。

备选标题（A–G，其中两项多余）

- A. It is clear that the countries of origin have never been compensated for the stolen artifacts.
- B. It is a flawed line of reasoning to argue against returning artifacts to their countries of origin.
- C. Museum visitors can still learn as much from artifacts' copies after the originals are returned.
- D. Reproductions, even if perfectly made, cannot take the place of the authentic objects.
- E. The real value of artifacts can only be recognized in their countries of origin rather than anywhere else.
- F. Ways to get artifacts from other countries must be decent and lawful.
- G. Concern over security is no excuse for refusing to return artifacts to their countries of origin.

Simply, there are people in Nigeria who cannot travel to the Smithsonian Institution to see that part of their history and culture represented by the Benin Bronzes. These should be available to them as part of their cultural heritage and history and as a source of national pride. There is no good reason that these artifacts should be beyond the ordinary reach of the educational objectives or inspiration of the generations to which they were left. They serve no purpose in a museum in the United States or elsewhere except as curious objects. They cannot be compared to works of art produced for sale which can be passed from hand to hand and place to place by purchase.

We know very exact reproductions of artwork can be and are regularly produced. Perhaps museums and governments might explore some role for the use of nearly exact reproductions as a means of resolving issues relating to returning works of art and antiquities. The context of any exhibit is more important to me than whether the object being displayed is 2000 years old or 2 months old. In many cases the experts have a hard time agreeing on what is the real object and what is a forgery. Again, the story an exhibit is trying to tell is what matters. The monetary value of the objects on display is a distant second place in importance.

When visiting the Baltimore Museum of Art, I came across a magnificent 15th-century Chinese sculpture. It inspired me to learn more about the culture that it represented. Artifacts in museums have the power to inspire, and perhaps spark that need to learn and understand the nature of their creators. Having said that, I do feel that whatever artifacts find their way to public museums should, in fact, be sanctioned as having been obtained on loan, legally purchased, or obtained by treaty. Stealing artifacts from other peoples' cultures is obscene; it robs not only the physical objects, but the dignity and spirit of their creators.

Ancient art that is displayed in foreign countries by all means should be returned to the original country. The foreign countries have no right to hold back returning the items. I would ask that the foreign nations and the original country discuss the terms of transfer. Yes, there is the risk that the original country will not have as good security as do the foreign countries. But look at what happened to Boston's Gardner Museum theft in 1990, including the loss of Rembrandt, Vermeer, Manet, and other masterpieces. Nothing is absolutely safe, nowhere. And now Climate Change agitators are attacking publicly displayed works in European museums.

To those of you in the comments section who are having strong feelings about artifacts being removed from cities in the US and Britain and returned to their countries of origin, I would ask you to consider: why do you think Americans have more of a right to easily access the Benin Bronzes than the people of Nigeria? Why are people who live within a day's drive of London entitled to go and see the Elgin Marbles whenever they want, but the people of Athens aren't? What intrinsic factors make the West a suitable home for these artifacts but preclude them from being preserved and displayed by their countries of origin? If your conclusion is that the West is better able to preserve these artifacts, think about why you're assuming that to be true.

原题全文（划线句为 46–50，未省略）

“Elephants never forget” — or so they say — and that piece of folklore seems to have some foundation. The African savanna elephant, also known as the African bush elephant, is distributed across 37 African countries. They move between a variety of habitats, including forests, grasslands, woodlands, wetlands and agricultural land. (46) They sometimes travel more than sixty miles to find food or water, and are very good at working out where other elephants are — even when they are out of sight. Using tracking devices, researchers have shown that they have “remarkable spatial acuity.” When finding their way to waterholes, they headed off in exactly the right direction, on one occasion from a distance of roughly thirty miles. What is more, they almost always seem to choose the nearest waterhole. (47) The researchers are convinced that the elephants always know precisely where they are in relation to all the resources they need, and can therefore take shortcuts, as well as following familiar routes. Although the cues used by African elephants for long-distance navigation are not yet understood, smell may well play a part. Elephants are very choosy eaters, but until recently little was known about how they selected their food. (48) One possibility was that they merely used their eyes and tried out the plants they found, but that would probably result in a lot of wasted time and energy, not least because their eyesight is actually not very good. (49) The volatile chemicals produced by plants can be carried a long way, and they are very characteristic: Each plant or tree has its own particular odor signature. What is more, they can be detected even when they are not actually visible. New research suggests that smell is a crucial factor in guiding elephants — and probably other herbivores — to the best food resources. The researchers first established what kinds of plant the elephants preferred either to eat or avoid when foraging freely. They then set up a “food station” experiment, in which they gave the elephants a series of choices based only on smell. (50) The experiment showed that elephants may well use smell to identify patches of trees that are good to eat, and secondly to assess the quality of the trees within each patch. Free-ranging elephants presumably also use this information to locate their preferred food.

46. They sometimes travel more than sixty miles to find food or water, and are very good at working out where other elephants are — even when they are out of sight.

Section III · Writing 写作手把手（51–52）

Part A 小作文（应用文·约100词）

题目：Read the following email from an international student and write a reply. Paul: I've got a class assignment to make an oral report on an ancient Chinese scientist, but I'm not sure how to prepare for it. Can you give me some advice?

第一步 审题

文体：书信/邮件（回信）；对象：同学 Paul（语气友好）；要点：①感谢/回应 ②介绍手艺人将展示什么 ③说明他能帮什么忙。

第二步 头脑风暴

要点	可写内容	作用
回应	Glad you are interested...	承接来信
展示内容	paper-cuts, clay figures, skills behind them	满足提问

要点	可写内容	作用
协助	book tables, print posters, guide guests	给出任务

第三步 列提纲（应用文格式）

部分	功能	模板句
称呼	Dear Paul,	Dear Paul,
P1	回应+感谢	I'm glad you're interested in the craftsmen's visit.
P2	说明展示内容	They will show how to make traditional paper-cuts and clay figures...
P3	说明协助事项	As for the preparation, could you help me book two tables and print the posters?
结尾/署名	感谢+署名	Thank you so much for your help. / Yours, Li Ming

第四步 逐句写成文（范文）

Dear Paul,

Glad to help. Here is some advice on preparing your oral report.

First, choose a scientist you find interesting, such as Zhang Heng or Li Shizhen, and read about his life and main achievements. Second, focus on one or two of his inventions and explain how they changed people's lives. Third, make a simple outline and use pictures or a short video to make your report vivid. Finally, practise your speech several times so that you can speak clearly and confidently.

If you need more materials, just let me know. Good luck with your report.

Yours,

Li Ming

第五步 检查

约100词；称呼与署名格式正确；是否回答 Paul 的两个问题；语气礼貌；不用真实姓名（用 Li Ming）。

 分步手写默写（每一步一块：先写，再点“显示答案”对照）

称呼 + 回应（P1）

第三步 列提纲（三段式）

段	功能	模板句
P1	描述图表	The chart shows that the number of parks in a city rose from 406 in 2020 to 670 in 2022.
P2	解读含义	It reflects the government's growing emphasis on the environment and people's quality of life.
P3	评论建议	We should protect green spaces and enjoy a healthier, greener life.

第四步 逐句写成文（范文）

As is shown in the picture and the chart, the number of parks in a certain city increased steadily from 406 in 2020 to 532 in 2021 and further to 670 in 2022. Meanwhile, more and more citizens are seen relaxing and exercising in these green spaces.

The chart conveys a clear message: the city is attaching greater importance to the environment and to people's quality of life. More parks mean fresher air, more space for exercise, and better opportunities for residents to get close to nature. This not only improves public health but also makes the city more livable and harmonious.

In my view, such progress is well worth encouraging. The government should continue to build and protect green spaces, and we citizens should also take good care of them. Only by working together can we enjoy a greener environment and a happier life.

第五步 检查

160–200词；数据引用准确；首段描述、中段解释、末段评论；衔接词（As is shown / Such a trend / In my view）；语法与拼写。

 分步手写默写（每段一块：先写，再点“显示答案”对照）

P1 描述图表

模板：As is shown in the table, the number of major durable consumer goods per 100 households kept rising from 2014 to 2023.

答案

P2 解读含义

模板：Such a trend clearly reflects the improvement of people's living standards and the upgrading of household consumption.

答案

P3 评论建议

模板：In my view, this change is encouraging, but it also reminds us to consume responsibly.

长难句精讲（四步拆句·一目了然）

四步法：① 找主干（几个谓语切几段，先划掉从句/插入语）→ ② 理枝叶（每块修饰谁）→ ③ 排语序（定语前置/长状语拆句）→ ④ 出译文。

1. Without the need to be touched to open or close, automatic doors are essential in improving disabled access to buildings and helping provide general convenience to commercial buildings.

- ① 主干Automatic doors are essential in improving access and helping provide convenience.（自动门在改善通行和提供便利方面至关重要。）
- ② 枝叶Without... → 介词短语作状语；be essential in doing 对做.....至关重要；improving... and helping... 为并列动名词。
- ③ 语序Without 短语译“无需.....”；两个动名词顺译“改善.....和提供帮助.....”。
- ④ 译文由于无需触碰即可开关，自动门在改善建筑的无障碍通行、为商业建筑提供普遍便利方面至关重要。

2. Particularly useful in busy locations or during times of emergency, the doors act as crowd management by reducing the obstacles put in people's way.

- ① 主干The doors act as crowd management.（这些门起到人群管理的作用。）
- ② 枝叶Particularly useful... → 形容词短语作状语/主语补足；act as 充当；by reducing... → 方式状语；put in people's way → 过去分词作后置定语。
- ③ 语序形容词短语译“在.....尤为有用”；put in people's way 译“挡在人们路上的（障碍）”。
- ④ 译文在人流密集处或紧急情况下尤为有用，这些门通过减少挡在人们路上的障碍，起到人群管理的作用。

3. Replacing swing doors, these allow smaller buildings to maximise the usable space inside without having to clear the way for a large, sticking-out door.

- ① 主干These allow smaller buildings to maximise the usable space.（这些门使较小的建筑得以最大化内部可用空间。）
- ② 枝叶Replacing swing doors → 现在分词作状语；allow sb to do；without having to... → 介词短语表伴随。
- ③ 语序分词状语译“取代了平开门”；without 短语译“而无需……”。
- ④ 译文这些门取代了平开门，使较小的建筑无需为宽大外凸的门腾出通道，就能最大化内部可用空间。

4. According to Sichel, although the falling price of nails was driven partly by cheaper iron and cheaper energy, most of the credit goes to nail manufacturers who simply found more efficient ways to turn steel into nails.

- ① 主干Most of the credit goes to nail manufacturers.（主要功劳归于钉子制造商。）
- ② 枝叶although... → 让步状语从句；be driven by 由……驱动；who... → 定语从句修饰 manufacturers。
- ③ 语序让步从句译“尽管……”；定语从句译“那些……的（制造商）”。
- ④ 译文西切尔指出，尽管钉子价格的下降部分由更便宜的钢铁和能源推动，但主要功劳归于那些只是找到了更高效地把钢变成钉子的方法的钉子制造商。

5. After writing two books about the history of inventions, one thing I've learnt is that while it is the enchantingly sophisticated technologies that get all the hype, it's the cheap technologies that change the world. ★ 嵌套较深：建议拆成 2 句顺译

- ① 主干One thing is that it's the cheap technologies that change the world.（有一点是：改变世界的正是廉价技术。）
- ② 枝叶After writing... → 时间状语；I've learnt → 省略关系词的定语从句修饰 one thing；that... 表语从句；while... → 让步状语从句，含两个强调句 it is...that...。
- ③ 语序表语从句顺译；while 译“虽然……但……”；强调句译“正是……”。
- ④ 译文在写完两本关于发明史的书之后，我学到的一点是：虽然备受吹捧的是那些令人着迷的高精尖技术，但真正改变世界的却是廉价技术。

6. This abrupt shift to an “intensive mothering narrative”, which suggests that mothers should manage childcare alone, was likely to have been harmful.

- ① 主干This abrupt shift was likely to have been harmful.（这种突然的转变很可能有害。）
- ② 枝叶to an “intensive mothering narrative” → 后置定语；which... → 非限制性定语从句，内含 that 宾语从句；be likely to have been 表对过去的推测。
- ③ 语序定语从句用破折号/逗号补充译出；be likely to have been 译“很可能曾经是”。
- ④ 译文这种向“密集母职叙事”的突然转变——该叙事主张母亲应独自承担育儿——很可能曾是有害的。

7. Chaudhary said that parents now have less childcare support from family and social networks than during most of humans’ evolutionary history, but introducing additional caregivers could reduce stress and maternal depression, which could have a “knock-on” benefit to a child’s wellbeing.

- ① 主干Chaudhary said that parents have less support, but introducing additional caregivers could reduce stress.（乔杜里说，父母得到的支持更少，但引入额外照护者可减轻压力。）
- ② 枝叶that... 宾语从句；less...than during... 比较结构；but 转折；which... → 非限制性定语从句，指代前面整句。
- ③ 语序比较结构译“比……更少”；which 从句译“这可能对孩子……产生连锁益处”。
- ④ 译文乔杜里说，如今父母从家庭和社会网络获得的育儿支持比人类进化史的大部分时期都要少，但引入额外的照护者可以减轻压力和产后抑郁，这又可能对孩子的福祉产生“连锁”的益处。

8. We can offer them a visit to Blackwater National Wildlife Refuge in Dorchester County where bald eagles fly over tidal marshes so shallow you could not paddle a boat across them but teaming with aquatic life.

- ① 主干We can offer them a visit to Blackwater National Wildlife Refuge.（我们可以邀请他们去参观黑水国家野生动物保护区。）
- ② 枝叶where... → 定语从句修饰 refuge；so shallow (that) you could not paddle... → 结果状语从句（省略 that）；but teaming with... → 分词短语表对比补充。
- ③ 语序定语从句顺译；so...(that) 译“如此浅，以至于……”；teaming with 译“却充满……”。
- ④ 译文我们可以请他们去参观多切斯特县的黑水国家野生动物保护区——在那里，白头海雕飞越潮汐沼泽，沼泽浅得连船都划不过去，却充满了水生生物。

长难句训练营（A—E）

A · 划主干（先写后对）

A · 划主干：先自己写出句子主干（主谓/主系表），再对照；不确定的句子点“加入错句本”。

1. Without the need to be touched to open or close, automatic doors are essential in improving disabled access to buildings and helping provide general convenience to commercial buildings.

在此写主干（主谓/主系表）

2. Particularly useful in busy locations or during times of emergency, the doors act as crowd management by reducing the obstacles put in people’s way.

在此写主干（主谓/主系表）

3. Replacing swing doors, these allow smaller buildings to maximise the usable space inside without having to clear the way for a large, sticking-out door.

在此写主干（主谓/主系表）

4. According to Sichel, although the falling price of nails was driven partly by cheaper iron and cheaper energy, most of the credit goes to nail manufacturers who simply found more efficient ways to turn steel into nails.

在此写主干（主谓/主系表）

5. After writing two books about the history of inventions, one thing I've learnt is that while it is the enchantingly sophisticated technologies that get all the hype, it's the cheap technologies that change the world. ★ 嵌套较深：建议拆成 2 句顺译

在此写主干（主谓/主系表）

6. This abrupt shift to an “intensive mothering narrative”, which suggests that mothers should manage childcare alone, was likely to have been harmful.

在此写主干（主谓/主系表）

7. Chaudhary said that parents now have less childcare support from family and social networks than during most of humans' evolutionary history, but introducing additional caregivers could reduce stress and maternal depression, which could have a “knock-on” benefit to a child's wellbeing.

在此写主干（主谓/主系表）

8. We can offer them a visit to Blackwater National Wildlife Refuge in Dorchester County where bald eagles fly over tidal marshes so shallow you could not paddle a boat across them but teeming with aquatic life.

在此写主干（主谓/主系表）

语法专项（本卷句子 · 先做后对）

本套卷语法考点清单与教学

一、时态：一般现在 / 现在完成 / 一般过去

普遍规律与观点用一般现在（act as / don't respect state boundaries）；由过去持续或强调影响用现在完成（have been surprised / has grown）；叙述历史事件用一般过去（buried / discovered / issued）。

二、被动语态

动作承受者作主语用 be+过去分词：was discovered / was driven / be considered the norm / were passed between caregivers；注意 be likely to have been harmful 的推测结构。

三、非谓语动词

动名词作主语或宾语（improving access / without having to clear the way）；不定式作目的、定语或宾语（ways to turn steel into nails / allow smaller buildings to maximise）；分词作定语或状语（Replacing swing doors / put in people's way）。

四、三大从句

宾语从句：showed that elephants may well use smell / suggests that mothers should...；定语从句：manufacturers who simply found... / a refuge where bald eagles fly；让步状语从句：although the falling price was driven... / while it is the sophisticated technologies...；结果状语从句：so shallow you could not paddle....

语法专项练习（先做再看答案）

直接在题目 ____ 处手写答案（Apple Pencil / 手指）；提示词为蓝色，每句下方给出中文意思。写完再展开“参考答案”核对。笔迹自动保存。

一、时态练习

1. Automatic doors _____ as crowd management in busy locations. (act)

句意：自动门在人流密集处起到人群管理的作用。

2. The price of nails _____ by 90% since the late 1700s. (fall)

句意：自 18 世纪后期以来钉子价格下降了 90%。

3. The Romans _____ a million nails nearly 2,000 years ago. (bury)

句意：罗马人近 2000 年前埋下了一百万枚钉子。

4. Other artists _____ by the popularity of their work in AI generators. (surprise)

句意：其他艺术家对自身作品在 AI 生成器中的流行感到惊讶。

二、被动语态练习

5. The nail hoard _____ in 1960. (discover)

句意：这批钉子于 1960 年被发现。

6. The falling price _____ partly by cheaper iron. (drive)

句意：价格下降部分由更便宜的钢铁推动。

7. Infants _____ between caregivers eight times an hour. (pass)

句意：婴儿每小时在照护者之间被传递八次。

8. The images _____ from the internet without permission. (scrape)

句意：这些图片未经许可从网上被抓取。

三、非谓语练习

9. _____ swing doors, these allow smaller buildings to save space. (Replace)

句意：取代平开门，这些门使小建筑节省空间。

10. Manufacturers found more efficient ways _____ steel into nails. (turn)

句意：制造商找到了更高效地把钢变成钉子的方法。

11. These doors are useful in _____ access to buildings. (improve)

句意：这些门在改善建筑通行方面很有用。

12. _____ by cheaper energy, the price fell. (Driven)

句意：受更便宜能源的推动，价格下降了。

四、从句练习

13. The experiment showed _____ elephants use smell to identify trees. (that)

句意：该实验表明大象利用气味识别树木。

14. The refuge, bald eagles fly over tidal marshes, is worth a visit. (where)

句意：白头海雕飞越潮汐沼泽的那处保护区值得一游。

15. the falling price was driven by cheaper iron, most credit goes to manufacturers. (Although)

句意：尽管价格下降由更便宜的钢铁推动，主要功劳仍归于制造商。

16. The marshes are so shallow you could not paddle a boat across them. (that)

句意：沼泽浅得连船都划不过去。
